Editor & Publisher reports from London that editorial staffers of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express and Sunday Express this week came to the defense of George Joyce, an Express reporter who allegedly faked an interview with Mrs. Donald Maclean, American wife of the missing British diplomat. The staff issued a statement after Joyce had reported the circumstances of the interview to them, in which they said they were "convinced he had committed no breach of journalistic ethics." But the Astor-owned Observer is still running letters to the editor supporting its attack on the Express.

*****

Our apologies to two contributors whose names were inadvertently omitted from the list of authors published last week: HOBART G. WEEKES and Joe McCarthy. And, once again, we must regretfully inform all contributors that it will not be possible for the Club nor the publishers to return any of the manuscripts submitted. Inasmuch as these manuscripts were understood to have been prepared specifically for this book, the publishers and the editors worked directly on the manuscripts in the early stages of editing, revising, and eventually retyping to meet the final publishing requirements. This applies to every manuscript, whether it was used in the final version or not. "Off the Record" will be issued by Doubleday (Garden City) Oct. 2nd.

ABOUT BOOKS

by
JOHN GOETTE

A lucky OPC'er will step into a Door Prize of Roget's International Thesaurus...Publisher Thomas Y. Crowell has made a second copy of this new edition, the first completely revised in 24 years, for use in the Club...Random House sent the Library a copy of IELAND STOWE's Conquest by Terror, a recent door prize, which tells of Russia's ruthless sovietization of millions of Eastern Europeans...Most timely is George A. Graham's Morality in American Politics (Random House Aug. 25). The author, professor of Politics at Princeton, delves deeply but in simple language into the political morals of those who are governed as well as those who govern...reading this non-partisan book would help all of us to vote more intelligently come November...On the fiction side, Appleton-Century-Crofts, Inc. sends us March of the Hero by Richard Lee Marks who sent to South America for material for his novel. His here is a "nor-teamericano" cartoonist employed on a crusading newspaper shut down by a Latin American dictator, whose assassination he helps to engineer...Sections of this book carry nostalgic overtones for OPC'ers who've worked in the Southern Hemisphere...The Spire, a love story of an English professor at a New England college, is by Gerald Warner Brace, published Aug. 18 by W.W.Norton & Co...In stark contrast is a non-fiction story of one man's experience in a Soviet slave labor camp, One of Fifteen Million by Kiev-born Nicholas Prychodko, published by Little, Brown, & Co...

COMING EVENTS

A series of six discussions linking the special skills of the scholar with one-the-spot observations of experienced correspondents will be held at the New School for Social Research in collaboration with the Overseas Press Club, according to SANFORD GRIFFITH, Chairman of the Special Events Committee. Subjects to be covered, beginning October 24th, are: "Attempts Toward a United Europe"; "An Appraisal of Psychological Warfare as related to United States World Policy"; "Emergence of the Moslem World"; "Conflicts in French North Africa"; "South Africa--the Color Issue"; "India and South East Asia".

LEO J. MARGOLIN resumes next month as lecturer in Public Administration at NYU's graduate division of public service. Last year the course broke University records for registration in a first-time course, attracting students from Thailand, Italy, Puerto Rico, Cuba, the Philippines and Nigeria...GERALDINE FITCH has a piece on Korea in The Freeman (August 25) entitled "Are We Winning at Panmunjom?"...LOU WEINTRAUB has been elected historian and LEN SMITH, Americanism Committee Chairman, of Advertising Men's Post, American Legion...

Alexander Campbell, whose application for Club membership is posted in this issue of The Bulletin (he was a guest at a club luncheon in June), was visited by detectives with a search warrant in his Johannesburg office on August 14. They picked up some of his files of dispatches to Time magazine, and departed, and there the case rested at last report. Earlier press reports incorrectly stated that he was "held for questioning" by South African police cracking down on citizens involved in opposing the Malan government's segregation laws. Campbell has filed many dispatches to Time on the subject.

Mark Sullivan, for over 30 years a syndicated Washington columnist and dean of the corps of columnists covering the nation's capital, died at his home in West Chester, Pa. August 13. He was 76 years old. In his recent years, Mr. Sullivan's tall, dignified figure was a familiar sight on Washington streets. His attire customarily included a derby hat, a high glossy-stiff collar and pince-nez glasses. Mr. Sullivan once turned down President HOOVER's offer to appoint him ambassador to Italy. Instead he asked the President for the privilege of being buried in Arlington National Cemetery, and the request was granted.

while she was here.

TOKYO Dateline--Special to The Bulletin--Life's MARGARET BOURKE-WHITE attended a recent round-table discussion on photograph here, and expressed an interest in the aluminum step-ladders Japanese press photographers carry around as an aid in shooting crowd or riot scenes... The photographers gallantly responded by presenting her with a ladder, inscribed with their names in Japanese characters in red, blue, green and orange. On a red enameled plate attached to the top step was Miss BOURKE-WHITE's name, also in Japanese, and an inscription which, roughly translated, means "Queen of the Cameras." The English citation on the plate reads: "Presented as memory of Japan. With the Best Wishes to Our Beloved and Respected Miss Margaret Bourke-White, Who Goes Ahead of Others."
